2020 World Congress of Sociology of Sport in partnership with the Latin American Association of Sociocultural Studies of Sport (ALESDE) and the Latin American Council of Social Sciences (CLACSO)

Call for Papers

Universidad Andres Bello, Viña del Mar, Chile

Local and Global Challenges for Social Studies of Sport in the 21st Century

From October 14 -17, 2020, the International Sociology of Sport Association (ISSA) in partnership with the Latin American Association of Sociocultural Studies of Sport (ALESDE) and the Latin American Council of Social Sciences (CLACSO) will hold its World Congress at Universidad Andres Bello in Viña del Mar, Chile. This congress will provide a forum to develop ideas and also represents an invitation and a challenge to participants with an aim to create an opportunity for the growth and mutual recognition of our advances and perspectives in the social studies of sports.
The theme of this congress is driven by several questions relating to the local and global production of knowledge in the sociology of sport, namely:

- What impact does our work have on a process of scientific circulation on a world scale?
- What are the characteristics in our production of knowledge?
- What can a Latin American country offer?

What are our characteristics in the production of knowledge? The work of Eisenstadt (2012) posits the idea of "multiple modernities" which understands that, while the world is approaching modernity, the dichotomy between traditional and modern societies loses relevance. However, encounters between cultures and projects of modernity give way to these multiple modernities, understanding that the process did not turn out to be a path defined by the European trajectory of modernity.

In the same way that Latin American "modernity" does not turn out to be a spelling of European "modernity", the production of knowledge isn’t either. Latin America was marked by a developmental period, in which an academic circuit was consolidated in the region and post-graduate schools were created, which facilitated circulation within the region, producing academic autonomy (Beigel, 2013). However, these processes decreased after the waves of dictatorships in the different Latin American countries. Although this could represent a setback, it also positioned our continent with a "critical" experience and sensitivity regarding the creation of knowledge from the social sciences.

C. Wright Mills (1959) argues about the transformation of sociology and speaks of an increasing specialization and the loss of the "craftsmanship" that the classical social researcher had. In his perspective he mentions them as deformations produced by the tendencies of industrial societies. In these differences he mentions that social researchers in industrial societies have a marked "methodological formalism", while Latin America has a lack of rigor, but there is a capacity for "essayism". From this old criticism, removing the negative character that Mills gives, we can see two distinctive features: the narrative offered by Latin America and the formalism that can be provided from other regions.

Returning to the question about the characteristics of the Latin American reality, for our part it is not possible to refer to ourselves as experts on the progress of the sociology of sport outside of our region. In the continent, sociology of sports could be summarized through the quote from Alabarces (2016) “Hemos fundado una sociología del deporte casi sin sociólogos” (We have founded a sports sociology almost without sociologists). This situation, has been an opportunity to develop interdisciplinarity research from anthropologists, historians, philosophers, sociologists, physical education teachers, psychologists and so on.

In relation to the critical observation and questions, what can a Latin American country offer? The theme is an opportunity to discuss our epistemological differences, as well to share our methodological tools from which we create our (grounded) knowledge. There is a low Latin American presence in ISSA, which can be caused by our monetary exchange differences in global economy, making difficult a Latin American participation in spaces outside the region. In this way ALESDE and CLACSO are nourished by knowledge that is generated and circulates through a cohesive but narrow network within the region, but with difficulties for rapid exchange with the rest of the world.
All this knowledge pushes the idea of the title, "Local and Global Challenges for Social Studies Of Sport in the 21st Century", as a challenge and invitation. Recognizing that countries and regions have travelled different trajectories and have overcome different challenges in the production of knowledge in the social studies of sports, which deserve a space for discussion and sharing in order to cross paths that allow scientific enrichment. Beyond the main theme, the congress will also feature a diverse range of sessions to enable scholars, including postgraduate students, the opportunity to share their latest research.

Abstract submissions will begin in December. Please visit: www.issa2020.com

ISSA 2019 Conference Report

The University of Otago, New Zealand hosted the 54th annual International Sociology of Sport Association’s World Congress. It was attended by over 260 delegates from 30 countries under the theme: “Sociology of Sport and Alternative Futures”. As part of the conference delegates were made honorary “scarfies” (a historical term used to represent University of Otago students who tend to wear scarves during the cool winters) for the duration of the conference with each receiving a U of Otago scarf.

Here are some of the Congress highlights:

- The 2-day pre-conference graduate student workshop was held with the support of a special initiatives grant from the ISSA/ISA. Over 35 students from 15 different countries participated to address such topics as: The global state of Sociology of Sport, Tips on Publishing, The challenges of being a graduate student and how to overcome them, how to prepare and interview for a job, and current challenges to University Education and the implications for the field. As part of the workshop students learned a waiata (traditional Māori song of welcome/thanks) which they performed in reply to the mihi whakatau (formal Māori greeting) at the opening ceremony much to the surprise and delight of the Minister of Sport and Recreation. The workshop was supported by University of Otago postgrads but also Otago alumni including: Koji Kobayashi, Sarah Gee, Ik Young Chang and Andrew Grainger as well as Cecilia Stenling, Josef Fahlen, Fabien Wille and Marcelle Dawson.

• The opening panel discussion: The power of sport as a tool to create positive social change for women and girls in society, offered insightful contributions from former Otago graduates, Rt Honourable Grant Robertson (Minister for Sport and Recreation) and Ms Kereyn Smith (NZ Olympic and Commonwealth Games Committee). The panel session was very well attended and helped demonstrate New Zealand’s leadership in this area.

• The keynote speaker was Professor Deborah Lupton a global leader in self-tracking technologies whose lecture titled “The More-than-Human Worlds of Self-Tracking for Health and Fitness” was well received.

Thanks to Andy Granger for this photo of keynote speaker Deborah Lupton.

• Professor Larry Wenner chaired a special panel session on the theme of: “The Fake Article Hoax and the State of Play in Critical and Qualitative Sociology of Sport”. The panel featured a distinguished group of scholars assessing key issues raised by a recent renegade study that entailed a group of researchers submitting fake research for publication to respected academic journals across the critical social sciences and humanities. Panellists included: Dominic Malcolm, Kim Toffoletti, Mary McDonald, Richard Pringle Catherine Palmer and Larry Wenner.

• Over 200 papers delivered across a range of topics within the sociology of sport (e.g., media, disability, indigeneity, gender, policy and politics, national identity, race, e-Sport).

On behalf of the Local Organising Committee our sincere thanks to all of our volunteers including: Dr. Marcelle Dawson, Associate Professor Rex Thomson, Professor Fabien Wille, Dr. Cecilia Stenling, Professor Josef Fahlen, Dr. Andy Grainger, Dr. Ik Young Chang, Dr.
Koji Kobayashi, Dr. Sarah Gee, Dr. Minhyeok Tak, Timothy Dawbin, Bethany Geckle, Yoon Jin Kim, Sebastian Potgieter, Damon Lillis, Lourdes Turconi, Nigel Barrett, the University of Otago ITS and Catering staff. Finally, a sincere thanks to all of the delegates who travelled far and wide to visit New Zealand – we look forward to seeing you here again some day.

Co-directors: Steve Jackson and Mike Sam

International Review for the Sociology of Sport
Editor Dominic Malcolm

Call for Research Articles

International Review for the Sociology of Sport
Editor-in-Chief Dominic Malcolm

Call for Research Articles
The IRSS encourages the submission of diverse research articles seated in the sociology of sport, broadly defined, that shed light on social and cultural understandings of sport. Interdisciplinary, inclusive, and global, the IRSS is the journal of the International Sociology of Sport Association and is published in partnership with SAGE Publications. Please visit the journal website for more information about its Aims & Scope, the Editorial Board, manuscript submission guidelines, and sample issues at http://journals.sagepub.com/home/irs

The IRSS publishes eight issues each year. To help expedite the review and publication process, the IRSS uses the SAGE Track online manuscript submission site powered by ScholarOne Manuscripts. Scholars submitting manuscripts for consideration can expect a prompt double-blind review process that draws on the expertise of a diverse editorial board and a worldwide network over 3000 expert area scholars. While we expect in the region of 300 submissions per year (including revised manuscripts) we operate a highly efficient process such that the majority of decisions are on manuscripts are issued within 40 days of submission. The journal’s use of the SAGE OnlineFirst publication program means that accepted manuscripts are usually made available to the scholarly community within weeks of acceptance. New Content alerts and exposure on the Sage Sociology Twitter channel (with around 34,000 followers) means that publication in the IRSS provides authors with an excellent opportunity to get scholarly work promptly disseminated to international audiences.
Book/Media Reviews
Authors wishing to review books or media (films, videos, interactive media) for the IRSS should review the guidelines for book and media reviews at http://journals.sagepub.com/home/irs and refer to previous issues of IRSS for format guidance.

To discuss potential media and/or comparative reviews, or to volunteer to contribute to a comparative review, please contact the book and media reviews editor directly: Dr. Kass Gibson, Plymouth Marjon University, Email: kgibson@marjon.ac.uk

Manuscripts for both research articles and book/media reviews may be submitted at http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/irss The IRSS editorial team looks forward to having the opportunity to consider your work.

Becoming a Reviewer
Being a reviewer gives you an insight into the publication process and a better understanding of how to develop your own research and publications. The easiest way to become a reviewer is to create an account through http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/irss

Here you will be asked to provide some keywords that describe your expertise and interests. Think carefully about how these might be used, as often reviewers are sourced through a keyword search of this database. Feel free to update these keywords as often as you like.

Managing your Account
If you already registered an account for the IRSS do remember to keep it updated. For instance, please remember to change your contact details when you move between institutions. Also consider updating your expertise keywords as your research profile develops. This will ensure that the journal gets reviewers who are active in their respective fields, and that you don’t get review requests that are no longer appropriate to your interests.

Members’ News
ISSA is happy to share information about conferences, seminars, awards, jobs etc. We will gladly include your news in our eBulletin and the ISSA website. ISSA is always looking for ways to improve communication and serve our members. We encourage you to submit comments and suggestions.

Please send any feedback and information to the ISSA Vice-President, Communications Mary McDonald at: communications@issa1965.org and remember that ISSA also has its own Facebook page, and you are welcome to share information via this group.
Sport Sociology Loses Two Pioneers of the Discipline

Recently the Sport Sociology community lost two key figures: Eric Dunning and George Sage. Eric Dunning died early in the morning of February 10, 2019 while George Sage passed away on February 11, 2019.

Eric Dunning (1935-2019)

Eric Dunning, Professor Emeritus at the University of Leicester, UK was selected as an Honorary Member of ISSA in 2012 in recognition of his outstanding contributions to the Sociology of Sport, long career of service to the International Sociology of Sport Association (ISSA), and his distinguished international academic career.

Dunning studied at the University of Leicester, UK where he earned his Bachelors, Masters and PhD degrees. As a Masters student, Eric approached his supervisor, Norbert Elias, to ask if it would be a good idea to undertake his dissertation on the sociological study of football. Having read, in the original German, Elias’s Civilizing Process, Eric decided to undertake his thesis drawing on Elias’s work. Thus began the long and productive collaboration between one of the most important sociologists of the 20th century and his student, Eric Dunning, who helped to create the sub-discipline of the sociology of sport. His scholarly work is exemplified by a commitment to the reorientation of sociological analysis advocated by Norbert Elias, that stresses the part played by power in developing social structures. Among his scholarly publications are:

- The Sociology of Sport: A Selection of Readings, 1971
- Barbarians, Gentlemen and Players, 1979
- Quest for Excitement: Sport and Leisure in the Civilizing Process, 1986
- And translations into English of much of Elias’s work.

Eric served as an Executive Board member of ISSA and an Associate Editor on the International Review for the Sociology of Sport (IRSS). During his career he actively mentored countless students and colleagues. An obituary that appeared in the Guardian and written by Ivan Waddington can be found here: https://www.theguardian.com/sport/2019/feb/22/eric-dunning-obituary

A brief reflection on Dunning’s significance in relationship to figuration sociology written by Stephen Mennell can be found at: http://norbert-elias.com/death-of-eric-dunning/

George H. Sage (1929-2019)

George Sage, Professor Emeritus of Kinesiology and Sociology at the University of Northern Colorado (USA) helped to create the Sociology of Sport. He was a founding member of the North American Society for the Sociology of Sport (NASSS) and later served as president of...
NASSS. Additionally, he was a Fellow in the National Academy of Kinesiology and a Fellow in the National Association for Kinesiology in Higher Education.

A multi-sport athlete, Sage played college basketball and baseball at Colorado State College, now the University of Northern Colorado. He took part in three College World Series as a pitcher for the Bears. After earning an undergraduate degree, he began a stint teaching high school physical education and subsequently earned his master’s degree. George went on to pursue his EdD at UCLA and during that time apprenticed under legendary UCLA basketball coach John Wooden. He then worked as a college basketball coach including at his alma mater (1963-1969) where he compiled a 95-36 record before leaving coaching in 1969 to devote more time to teaching and research. He earned the 1978 UNC Distinguished Scholar Award and in 1987 earned the UNC Lucile Harrison Outstanding Teaching Award. He is also a member of the UNC Athletic Hall of Fame.

Author of over 50 articles, George Sage also authored, co-authored or edited 21 books. Among the most impactful of these works is the one he co-authored with D. Stanley Eitzen, the Sociology of North American Sport. Now in its 11th edition, the book is a rare enduring foundational text in the field.

During his distinguished career George worked as a visiting professor at numerous universities internationally and served as a valuable mentor to countless students and colleagues. More details about his life can be found in his obituary: https://www.dignitymemorial.com/obituaries/greeley-co/george-sage-8157243

CALL FOR NOMINATIONS
International Sociology of Sport Association
Honorary Member Award 2020

The Executive Board invites nominations for an Honorary Member award in the International Sociology of Sport Association. This award honors outstanding contributions to the International Sociology of Sport Association and to the sociological study of sport.

The recipient of this award must meet both of the following criteria:

- a long career of service to the International Sociology of Sport Association, and
• a distinguished international academic career as a sociologist of sport. Individuals who are retired from formal academic positions are eligible for Honorary Member awards. In addition, the International Sociology of Sport Association will consider retrospectively honoring an individual’s service and scholarship with a ceremonial posthumous Honorary Member award.

Honorary Members in the International Sociology of Sport Association receive:
• Full, lifetime membership in the International Sociology of Sport Association, including subscription to the International Review for the Sociology of Sport;
• Free, lifetime registration to the International Sociology of Sport Association’s annual conference.

The list of current Honorary Members can be found at http://issa1965.org/board/#HonoraryMembers

Nominations

Nominators should submit a 1 to 2-page document (letter) by March 1, 2020 that describes in as much detail as possible how the nominee meets the International Sociology of Sport’s Honorary Member criteria. Submit nominations by email to Mike Sam at president@issa1965.org

CALL FOR PAPERS GRADUATE PAPER AWARD 2020

The 2020 ISSA Graduate Paper Award is co-sponsored by

ISSA and SAGE

Description

The aim of the International Sociology of Sport Association’s (ISSA) Graduate Paper Award is to recognize the scholarship of outstanding graduate students in the international community of sociology of sport. The award will be granted to a scholarly paper, authored by a graduate student, which is deemed by a panel of judges to demonstrate considerable originality, critical and analytical ability, and to be of the highest quality from among those submitted. The winning author will be invited to receive the award and present or distribute the paper at the annual conference of the ISSA.

Eligibility

• The student must be registered for masters or doctoral level graduate work at the time her or his paper is submitted.
• It must be a single-authored paper.
• The student must be a member of ISSA at the time her or his paper is submitted.
• The committee will accept only one submission per author.
• Previous winners are not eligible.
• A paper cannot be considered for the ISSA GPA award at the same time that it is submitted for another award.
• A paper that won a previous award cannot be submitted to the ISSA GPA.

Award

• The winning author will be invited to present or distribute the paper at the Joint Congress ALESDE and ISSA World Congress of Sociology of Sport in Viña del Mar, Chile in October 2020.
• While the registration fees for the winner are included in the prize, participation in the 2020 Congress is not mandatory.
• The winning author will receive an ISSA sponsored prize of membership in ISSA for 12 months.
• The winning author will receive a SAGE Publisher sponsored prize of £150 worth of books.
• The panel of judges may also give up to two honourable mentions. Graduate students receiving honourable mentions will also have their papers accepted for presentation or distribution at the ISSA conference.
• The name of all winning authors will be posted on the ISSA website (see, www.issa1965.org/awards).

Requirements

• Candidates are to submit a 3000-6000 word (excluding references) scholarly paper on a topic that is of interest to the international sociology of sport academic community.
• Papers with a text of over 6000 words will not be considered.
• Authors are to submit a cover page that contains the title of the paper and the full contact information of the author.
• The author’s identity must not be recognizable in the text.
• Authors must be graduate students at the time the paper is submitted.
• Authors must be members of ISSA at the time the paper is submitted.
• Authors are to submit a letter, signed by her or his academic advisor, verifying graduate student status.
• Authors are to follow a style consistent with the publication guidelines for the International Review for the Sociology of Sport.
• Papers should be submitted electronically (in Microsoft Word format attachment) to the Graduate Paper Awards Committee Chair, Parissa Safai.
• All papers should be emailed general.secretary@issa1965.org

Deadline for Receipt of Submissions: March 2, 2020, 11:59 PM EST.

The winner will be notified no later than May 15, 2020.

1 The ISSA reserves the right not to grant an award in the event that none of the submitted papers meet the award criteria.

Call For ISSA Archives

The ISSA Executive Board is calling on all past and current members to submit photos, documents and other materials that document the history of the association, congresses and journal. We will gladly accept any items either in digital or hard copy format. We will be happy to copy and return these to you, or to add relevant items to the ISSA Archive as part of our ongoing efforts to record the history of the ISSA and IRSS.

We are particularly hoping to obtain copies of ISSA Congress programs and Books of Abstract prior to 2011. For further information about the Archive and/or to donate items, please contact the ISSA President Christine Dallaire at president@issa1965.org.

Call for Young Researcher Award

Young Researcher Award 2019 – CALL FOR PAPERS The European Association for Sociology of Sport is proud to announce the 12th Eass Young Researcher Award.

The European Association for Sociology of Sport is proud to announce the 12th Eass Young Researcher Award. The aim of the award is to facilitate the integration of outstanding graduate students and young researchers into the European community of sociology of sport scholars. The award will be granted to a scholarly paper authored by a young researcher, which is deemed by a panel of judges to be of highest quality. The winning author will be invited to receive the award and present the paper at the Annual Conference of the Eass, to be hosted by Southampton Solent University in 18-21 May 2020 (https://www.solent.ac.uk/solent-sport/eass-2020-conference). The winning paper may be considered for publication in the European Journal for Sport and Society, should the author wish to submit it.

DEADLINE FOR RECEIPT OF SUBMISSIONS: 31st January 2020

Selection Committee 2019: Dr Mahfoud Amara (University of Qatar), Dr Tamas Doczi (University of Budapest), Dr Belinda Wheaton (University of Waikato), Dr Davide Sterchele (Leeds Beckett University). All papers and enquiries should be sent to Dr Davide Sterchele at d.sterchele@leedsbeckett.ac.uk

Eligibility: • Any student who is registered for master or doctoral level graduate work at the time her or his paper is submitted. • Any researcher, younger than 35, who was awarded PhD not earlier than 2 years before the submission deadline of the YRA call for papers. • The committee will accept only one submission per author.

Awards: The winning author will be invited to attend the Eass conference free of charge and to present the paper to the plenary session during the closing ceremony, in which they will receive a €500 monetary prize sponsored by Eass. • Eass sponsored prize of membership in Eass for the year after which the award is also granted. • The panel of judges may also give one honourable mention. Young researchers receiving an honourable mention will also have their papers accepted for presentation in a parallel session at the Eass conference free of charge and will receive a €250 monetary prize sponsored by ENGSO Youth. • The name of all winning authors will be posted on the Eass website (see: http://www.easssportsociology.eu/award-winners/)

Requirements:
• Candidates will submit a scholarly paper on a topic that is of interest to the European sociology of sport academic community. Please submit two separate files: the first one must contain the title of the paper and the full contact information of the author; the second one must contain the title, the abstract and the full text of the paper (here the author should remain anonymous).

- Papers with a length of over 8,500 words (references included) will not be considered.
- Papers must be original, i.e. not already submitted elsewhere.
- Papers must be single-authored (please contact Dr Davide Sterchele if you need clarification).
- Authors will submit a letter, signed by her or his academic advisor, verifying their student status or the date of their PhD completion (not earlier than 2 years before the submission deadline).
- Authors will comply with the publications guidelines of EJSS (see: http://www.tandfonline.com/action/authorSubmission?show=instructions&journalCode=ress20)
- Papers should be sent to the Award Committee Chair in electronic copy (Microsoft Word).
- When sending the full paper for the YRA, those authors who plan to attend the conference regardless of the YRA results must also submit their abstract separately via the on-line submission system of the general conference.

QRSE2020

Join us for the 7th International Conference on Qualitative Research in Sport and Exercise (7th – 9th July, 2020). The conference is being hosted by the Department for Sport and Exercise Sciences at Durham University.

Qualitative research in sport and exercise is now firmly established and continues to grow rapidly. It is also increasingly celebrated for what it can offer academics, students, practitioners and policy makers in terms of interpreting phenomena related to the meanings people bring to their experiences of sport, physical activity, exercise and leisure. This conference is dedicated to promoting cutting edge empirical inquiry, advancements in qualitative methods, and debates about methodology, theory, representation, criteria, ethics and practice.

We welcome qualitative researchers from all areas of sport and exercise. Past QRSE conferences have included submissions from the fields of sport and exercise psychology, sociology of sport, physical cultural studies, sport history, physical education, coaching, sports medicine, rehabilitation, health promotion, sport management, sport policy, and sport ecology.
We invite abstracts for oral papers, symposia, posters and arts-based/visual methods exhibits or performances in the following areas related to the qualitative study of sport and exercise:

- Empirical Research
- Theory
- Applied Practice
- Policy
- Pedagogy
- Qualitative Methods
- Research Ethics
- Representation

We hope you will be able to join us in beautiful Durham for this important discussion and we look forward to receiving your abstract! Click here for information on how to submit an abstract to QRSE2020.

KEY DATES
The deadline for the submission of abstracts is January 17th, 2020. Authors will be notified by email the outcome of their submission by mid February, 2020.

Congress of Youth and Winter Sports,

Lausanne Switzerland on January 7th and 8th, 2020

We would like to cordially invite you to the Congress of Youth and Winter Sports which will be held at the University of Lausanne, Switzerland on January 7th and 8th, 2020. The congress is organized with partnership of the EPFL, CHUV, and SmartMove network in collaboration with the IOC – Olympic Center Studies and ThinkSport.

In the days preceding the 2020 Winter Youth Olympics, we welcome you to join us for a multidisciplinary scientific program with special focus on young elite athletes and winter sport. The combination of research institutes and international sport organizations in a winter sport environment will allow for networking and collaborative ideas to be shared while gaining momentum for the future of youth sport.

We are pleased to introduce our highlighted keynote speakers: Miléna Parent (Canada), Andrew Stephan Denning (USA), Erich Müller (Austria), Hans-Christer Holmberg (Sweden), Holger Preuss (Germany), Oyvind Sandbakk (Norway), and Stéphane Bouthiaux.
(France), of whom will share insight into many aspects of winter sport and success in the development of youth athletes.

Please find supporting information about the congress including information on the disciplinary sections of social sciences, technology, and physiology-medicine, along with abstract submission, registration, and logistical information via the following website: wp.unil.ch/cyws20/
For inquiries, please contact us via email at CYWS20@unil.ch

We look forward to seeing you in Lausanne in 2020!
All the best,
Organizers of the Congress of Youth and Winter Sports 2020
