OBITUARY

MICK GREEN

Many of you will already have heard the sad news of the death of Mick Green. Mick died on 6th February after a short illness. For those of us who worked closely with Mick at Loughborough University the loss of such a great colleague and friend has been overwhelming. As a colleague Mick was a true team player more than willing to do his share of the routine administrative work that is a feature of any large department and someone who greeted the eccentricities of organisational life with a wry smile.

For most ISSA members Mick will be known for his research and publications. In his all too brief career at Loughborough – just over four years – he had established himself as a leading researcher in the field of elite sport policy, a field he had begun to define in early work with Ben Oakley. During his time on the staff in the School of Sport and Exercise Sciences Mick published two books and over a dozen articles and was increasingly in demand as a presenter at specialist conferences on elite sport systems. Despite his rapidly growing international reputation Mick was someone who wore his scholarship lightly. He had a tremendously infectious enthusiasm for teaching, research and scholarship and, as someone who came into academic life late, he was determined to make up for lost time. Mick's untimely death has robbed us of a wonderful colleague and a generous and talented scholar. However, there are others whose loss is far greater and our thoughts are with Mick's partner, mother and brothers.

Professor Barrie Houlihan, Loughborough, UK.

INTERNATIONAL REVIEW FOR THE SOCIOLOGY OF SPORT

Message from our editor

I am very happy to say that your Journal is now fully back on schedule with all back-logs cleared and a steady flow of submissions ensuring that we are going to be able to meet our publication targets on time for the foreseeable future. The average turn around time from submission to publication for accepted papers is approximately 6 months, which is a considerable improvement. Our next target is to ensure that IRSS becomes officially recognized in the appropriate registers as the high quality peer reviewed journal which I believe it to be. So, let's keep the copy flowing in and please, as you attend seminars and conferences, when you hear a good paper that is relevant to our field, encourage the author/s to submit a version of their paper to IRSS

Professor John Sugden
